

Graduate studies

Have you already earned a bachelors degree or equivalent?

Now you want more?

Then we invite you to undertake your master studies at the Friedrich Schiller University Jena.

In more than 60 high-quality Master of Arts and Master of Science programmes, you will be taught the knowledge and skills you need for demanding positions in the worlds of academe and business. In four semesters you will be qualified for Master of Arts or Master of Science.

Besides earning a professional qualification, you will experience a special university atmosphere during your graduate studies at the Friedrich Schiller University Jena.

The University of Jena looks back on a 450-year history full of great traditions: Goethe, Schiller, Hegel, and Fichte shaped the intellectual life of the time, while Abbe, Zeiß, and Schott were pioneers who contributed to the blossoming of German industries.

We offer a dynamic, future-oriented environment for research and teaching with state-of-the-art laboratories, interdisciplinary study groups, and a very modern library.

You will find well established support services and have ample opportunities to discuss coursework with your instructors.

Jena is a cozy student town with everything in close reach.

And if you discover you have a passion for research after two years in Jena, you are welcome to stay and pursue a Ph.D. here as well. Visit our Graduate Academy for more information. The Friedrich Schiller University Jena believes in the importance of assisting young academics on every step of their career.
